

Statement

In this exhibition, I selected paintings in which warm colors seep through or interrupt dominant cool colors. They recall how I spent winter solstice, or tōji, during my childhood in Japan. Outside it was cold, but inside the house, we kept ourselves warm by sitting at a table with an electric heat source (kotatsu) or taking a bath with a citrus fruit (yuzu).

Kyoko Miyabe